

Bird and exotics vet

Pet Birds and their Diets

Just as with people, birds require a balanced diet to remain healthy.

There is no single complete diet for all bird species and for each species there is no one food source that is completely balanced.

University Veterinary Centre – Sydney

We proudly participate in the Cat Protection Society kitten adoption scheme.

The University of Sydney

We cater for all your pets' needs, from whisker to tail ...

The University Veterinary Centre is a state-of-the-art veterinary hospital. Looking after your pet is our highest priority. Both routine and specialist veterinary services are available.

- 🐾 Vaccinations
- 🐾 Microchipping
- 🐾 Desexing
- 🐾 Puppy pre-school
- 🐾 Dentistry

- 🐾 Specialist medicine
- 🐾 Specialist surgery
- 🐾 Dermatology
- 🐾 Radiology and ultrasound
- 🐾 Flea and worming treatments

10% discount for University of Sydney staff and students

65 Parramatta Road Camperdown 2006
Ph: 9351 3437 Fax: 9351 7436
www.vetsci.usyd.edu.au/sydneyclinic

Because animals matter

Species	Food Types
	Grass	Vegetables	Fruit	Pellets* as main food	Seed* if does not eat pellets	Lorikeet mix	Native plants	Native blossom
Cockatiel	Daily	Daily	Occasional	Daily	No more than 5-10 sunflower seeds daily	None	Daily	Occasional
Budgerigar	Daily	Daily	Occasional	Daily	Budgie seed	None	Daily	Occasional
Galah	Daily	Daily	Occasional	Daily	No more than 10 sunflower seeds daily	None	Daily	Occasional
Sulphur-Crested Cockatoo	Daily	Daily	Occasional or daily	Daily	No more than 10 sunflower seeds daily	None	Daily	Occasional
Lorikeet	Occasional to none	Daily	Daily	None	None	Daily DRY mix	Occasional	Daily
Eclectus	Occasional	Daily	Daily	Daily	No more than 10 sunflower seeds daily	None	Daily	Occasional
Canary	Daily	Daily	Daily	Daily	Canary seed	None	Occasional	Occasional

Dr Alex Rosenwax – BVSC MACVSc (Avian Health) Bird & Exotics Veterinarian, Green Square.

Alex graduated from the University of Sydney in 1991. He achieved Membership of the Avian Health Chapter of the Australian College of Veterinary Scientists in 1996. In November 1996 he opened the first and only Sydney all bird and exotic pet practice. The Clinic moved to 1 Hunter St Waterloo in 2003 and sees approximately 80% birds, and 20% fish, reptiles and other exotic pets. Alex is the current president of the Australian Veterinary Association Avian Group.

Shop 3, Block D, 1 Hunter St Waterloo, Sydney 2017
Ph: (02) 9319 6111 <http://www.birdvet.com.au>

PERSONALIZED PET DVD'S

PETS MAGICAL MOMENTS

Make your pet the star
We will capture those moments with you and your pet and create a lasting memory on DVD

Call Kaylene
0408 462 154

